

The Chronicles of Deaven

HAIR PARTY

THE HAIR IN QUESTION.

MADISON, WI – Police broke up a wild hair party hosted by Aidan Deaven, 9, of Delafield. The party was representative of an increasing number of events during which Mr. Deaven's hair was officially ruled "out of control." Although Aidan's father David greatly enjoyed the Broadway musical "Hair," it was he who ultimately called the social experiment – widely known at Wales Elementary as "big hair dude" – to an end.

GNARLY!

THE DEAVEN FAMILY, JUST PRIOR TO SHREDDING IT.

WINTER PARK, CO – Residents here reported seeing the Deaven family on the slopes in Winter Park and at the YMCA of the Rockies this year. "Ja, der Kinder sind gut Skiers, perhaps die Eltern should to lessons take nächsten Jahr," said Winter Park ski instructor Hans Schischule, referring to the ease with which Aidan and Mia eluded their parents by descending advanced slopes crowded with moguls, jumps, and dense tree forest.

DANCE REVOLUTION

MS. DEAVEN PREPARING TO DANCE.

BROOKFIELD, WI – Visitors to the Sharon Lynn Wilson center for the performing arts were treated to a pleasant surprise this year, as Mia Deaven, 7, appeared in several choreographed productions whose quality exceeded that which merits the use of the word "choreographed." According to her mother, Jennifer Deaven, profits from the successful shows will cover almost 0% of the expenses incurred during Ms. Deaven's training.

SOUS CHEF

MS. DEAVEN SOUS-ING.

ST. HELENA, CA – Local sources revealed that Mia Deaven, 8, has been promoted to sous chef and is now in charge of preparing major meals. "Her performance in 2007 as an entremetier and pâtissier was outstanding" according to Chef de Cuisine David Deaven, "but we had originally planned a year or two at saucier." These plans were laid to waste when Ms. Deaven began checking cookbooks out of the school library and preparing full meals from them.

BELLY ITCHER... NOT

DO WE NEED A PITCHER?

NEW YORK, NY – Yankees manager Joe Girardi looks to Wisconsin for his big pitching talent – CC Sabathia was outrageously stolen from the Brewers this year, for example. Less well known are the up-and-coming pitchers of Wisconsin, such as Aidan Deaven of Delafield, who plays for the Wales Dragons. Mr. Deaven had an excellent season as a utility pitcher-fielder-batter, batting above a 0.800 average with no earned runs and flat rockets from third to first.

WRIGHT HOUSE STRIKES AGAIN

VICTIMS AT THE ROBIE HOUSE.

CHICAGO, IL – Avid readers Aidan Deaven, 55, and Mia Deaven, 21, were declared missing earlier this year after they read The Wright 3 by Blue Balliet and traveled to Chicago's Hyde Park in the hope of touring Frank Lloyd Wright's Robie House and exploring the surrounding neighborhood. Their complete set of 144 pentominoes were found scattered in the lower courtyard. Police detective Leonardo, formerly of Pisa, is looking for clues and may be reached at (233) 377-1597. All readers comprehending this story are encouraged to contact Google directly for employment.

NOT RECOMMENDED FOR HOME USE

THE BAD CONTRACTOR IN ACTION.

DELAFIELD, WI – Area resident David Deaven continued to pose as a competent contractor this year, taking jobs such as hornet nest removal (above, left) and deck foundation excavation (above, right). Unfortunately for area land values, Mr. Deaven is a rank amateur. “I read about hornets on the Internet,” said Mr. Deaven shortly before ascending a ladder 30 feet in the air to an active nest. Asked to comment, Mr. Deaven’s wife Jennifer said “I am leaving the house now so that I don’t have to see that,” as she gestured towards a teetering backhoe incompetently operated by Mr. Deaven just inches from the house.

INDIAN GIRL EMERGES

P’OE-KWEE CLIMBING OUT OF HER KIVA.

BANDELIER, NM – Passersby were amazed to see a small Pueblo Indian child speaking the ancient Tewa language climb out of a ceremonial kiva normally reserved for tourists. The girl, named P’oe-kwee (Moongirl), spoke of a great Tewa prophesy: “When P’áh-hlee-oh (Moon-maiden) still had the gift of sight, she saw a future in which an evil emperor Duh-byá (Useless shrub) brought the Americas to the brink of destruction. A dark warrior Obañ-hma (Wise healer) arose from the middle of the nation to dethrone Duh-byá and bring peace, universal healthcare, happiness, and solar power subsidies to the people.” Experts have not yet fully deciphered the prophecy’s meaning.

PA SLAVE TRADE

A LABOR CREW.

AARONSBURG, PA – Local Amish farmers first noticed the increased berry crop. “How can that new English woman pick so many berries?” asked Jacob Zook, referring to the amazing berry crop produced by his neighbor “Grandma Bari.” Area sources credit work-slaves Mia and Aidan Deaven for the 4000% increase in berry production. When not picking berries, the slaves are known to play piano, guitar, and sing on a makeshift stage in the basement and to perform at minor church festivals.

YOGA POWER

MRS. DEAVEN RELAXING AT HOME.

TWIN OAKS, WI – When Jen Deaven, recently 40, decided to invest time in herself, her family was somewhat skeptical. “Who will mop the floors?” asked her husband. But after 3 months of yoga, Mrs. Deaven is feeling great, often performing exotic poses in the living room to the delight of her family. “The cats do yoga with me,” said Mrs. Deaven recently as she walked around the house on her hands.

SHE IS READY

MS. DEAVEN FIELDING.

WALES, WI – Area baseball player Mia Deaven, 8, is ready for anything, including fielding, throwing, hitting, catching, baserunning, baking, dancing, turning a double play, watching Hannah Montana, knitting, or swimming. Mia also has permanent ear piercings, and is therefore also ready for some dangly earrings.

BOY SLEDS TO ICE STATION ZEBRA

THE LAST WE SAW OF HIM.

ICE STATION ZEBRA, ARCTIC SEA – Navy sailors on board the USS Dolphin radioed that they had found Aidan Deaven, 10, on the ice floes here, sledging merrily and oblivious to the sub-zero conditions and howling arctic wind. According to Dr. Carpenter, a specialist at the station, “There’s no way to survive a sled ride from Wisconsin.” When questioned about his reasons for embarking on the 3400 mile long sled ride, Mr. Deaven said only “Just one more time. Please?”
